

Per Hasvold

Master of Physics at the University of Tromsø, Norway in 1991. After a few years of working with designing sensor systems for environment surveillance and health monitoring at TromsTech DA and Akvaplan-niva AS, began working as a information systems developer at the Norwegian Centre for Telemedicine (NST) in 1995.

Leader of the Future Telemedicine Lab at NST in 2000. PhD candidate at the University of Oslo, working on the topic Participatory Design of Mobile Systems for Healthcare in 2001. University lecturer at Masters Program in Telemedicine at the University of Tromsø in 2006. Since medio 2007: Acting Administrative Leader for Tromsø Telemedicine Laboratory a Centre for Research-Based Innovation hosted by NST.